BLUE LAWS.

ABOUT TO KILL AN INDIANA TOWN.

Evansville, Ind., May 18—The town of Newberg, ten miles east of here, had a taste of the blue laws yesterday and every place of business was closed. This was according to the orders of Rev. T. J. Moody, pastor of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, who was elected clerk on the prohibition ticket at the last town election. Drug stores were not allowed to sell medicine without an order from a physician, and livery stables were not permitted to take out horses. Fast driving on the streets was not allowed and swearing and profane language was stopped.

The clerk says he will enforce the laws regarding Sunday closing during his term of office for the next two years. Under a new law the clerk has almost absolute power in a town the size of Newberg, as all cases are tried before him. The merchants of the town who have been accustomed to keeping open on the Sabbath day are greatly offended at the action of the minister and clerk. In a sermon by Rev. Mr. Moody he said he knew the Lord was with him in his move, and stated if closing the town up tight on Sunday killed the town it would be the best thing for society and the community at large.

Women's Fascinations.

The old saying about sweet sixteen is exploded by the truer knowledge that the highest beauty does not dwell in immaturity, for beauty does not mean alone the fashion of form and coloring, as found in a waxen doll. A woman's best and richest years are

POLICE COURT.

Family Troubles Came in for an Airing Today.

The Walbert and the Singleton-Whitehurst Cases Again Continued.

Judge Sanders this morning took occasion to reprimand Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. Nash, two residents of Gobel avenue, of the Worten addition, who had gotten into a difficulty over the former's husband.

The evidence showed that Mrs. Sheppard accused Mrs. Nash of taking her husband away from her, which the latter resented.

The children were set to crying in the court by Judge Sanders' reprimand, but the women seemed little moved.

The judge stated that both should be heavily fined and made to give a bond of $500, but in conclusion fined them both $20 and costs and suspended judgment during good behavior and recognized both in the sum of $500 for their good behavior for a period of twelve months.

The case against Jesse Clark, colored, for throwing confetti and cursing and abusing a colored girl, was continued until tomorrow.

Homer Williams, colored, was fined $5 and no costs for disorderly conduct.

John Pryor, colored, was fined $10 and costs on motion of the prosecuting attorney for a breach of the peace.

The breach of the peace case against Charles Hill, colored, was continued. He knocked Elihu Harris in the head with a spoke and was recognized for his appearance, failing to appear.

The case against Alderman Gus Singleton and Officer Buck Whitehurst, for fighting, was again continued.

The case against John Henry Vickers, colored, for the theft of $5 from the Dock Hays barber shop, was left open.

The malicious shooting case against Ed Walbert was continued until May 23.

S. A. Womble and Charles Goodman were arraigned for violating the Sabbath and both cases continued.

CIRCUIT COURT

Clerk Patterson Wins the Mandamus Suit.

News-Democrat Takes An Appeal—Other Court Proceedings.

Judge Husbands this morning decided the mandamus proceedings brought by the News-Democrat Publishing Co. against William H. Patterson, clerk of the council, in favor of the defendant and the plaintiff's prayer for an appeal was granted.

Several weeks ago Prosecuting Attorney Jesse Gilbert appointed the Register Publishing company city printer and Clerk Patterson began to turn over the city printing to this company. The News-Democrat had been doing the city printing and claiming the appointment was illegal brought the mandamus suit to compel Clerk Patterson to turn the public printing over to it. The case now goes to the court of appeals.

The case of Mollie Seay against T. E. Seay was dismissed.

The case of A. Y. Martin, trustee, against J. W. Moore, was dismissed. The case of Friedman, Keiler & Co., against O. B. Everidge was stricken.

Was Too Pessimistic.

Sir Benjamin Baker, consulting engineer to the Egyptian government, tells an amusing story of an interview he had eight years ago with an old-fashioned native land owner at the time when the construction of a large reservoir somewhere in the Nile valley was first seriously proposed. This descendant of the prophet, who was very rich and had been twice warned by the government that probably he would be hanged if any more bodies of servants he had quarreled with were found floating in the Nile, assured Sir Benjamin that there could be nothing in the project of a Nile reservoir or it would have been done at least 4,000 years ago. Yet the great Assouan dam now shows that the ancients did not have all the enter-
